U.S. Postal Regulatory Commission
901 New York Avenue NW, Suite 2000
Washington, DC 20268-0001

Dear Commissioners:

I am writing today to express our concerns with the Postal Regulatory Commission's (PRC) recommendations based on the recent regulatory review process. Your proposal will have a direct impact on the broader mailing industry supply chain, including Kodak's printing businesses.

By way of background, Kodak is a leader in the printing industry, and we are strongly committed to creating new and ground-breaking technologies in the printing arena. Our customers range from small businesses to large global companies, and together, we are working to continue to innovate in the direct mail marketing space.

At Kodak, we have over 400 employees working for our Enterprise Inkjet Systems Division. Our company has recently made significant investments in this business and is working to build the next generation of inkjet writing systems.

We appreciate your leadership as you work to address the many challenges facing the U.S. Postal Service, but we ask you to consider alternative solutions that will also protect the businesses that are directly tied to its success.

Sincerely,
